1-) Interface. What does your project look like now? Are you close to the picture you posted under "Final Project Idea"?

My projects physical appearance and wiring is complete. I drilled holes into a circular wood panel and inserted single addressable rgb leds I found on amazon. I still have to get my button to work with my project which in time will work when I start my code for the game.

2-) What's next? What are the next steps for your project?
        I have to now learn how to work with the code to control my lights and start the process of coding my game. I'm going to also learn how to control my push button with my game. I also have to finish supergluing a few things and organizing the wires, so it looks nice

Below are photos of my project so far: